

Japanese Language and Literature

Journal of the American Association of Teachers of Japanese

jll.pitt.edu | Vol. 55 | Number 2 | October 2021 | DOI: 10.5195/jll.2021.231

ISSN 1536-7827 (print) 2326-4586 (online)

CONTRIBUTORS

Jonathan E. Abel (jea17@psu.edu) is Associate Professor of Japanese Studies and Comparative Literature at Penn State University. His book Redacted: The Archives of Censorship in Transwar Japan (University of California Press, 2012) won the Weatherhead East Asia Institute First Book Prize. He has recently completed a book manuscript that explores the role of Japanese new media in transforming the world in unexpected ways.

Anne Commons (acommons@ualberta.ca) is Associate Professor of Japanese Language and Literature in the Department of East Asian Studies at the University of Alberta. Her research is concerned with classical Japanese poetry (waka), poetic commentaries, and literary reception. She is the author of Hitomaro: Poet as God (Brill, 2009) and co-editor of Lovable Losers: The Heike in Action and Memory (University of Hawai'i Press, 2015).

Timothy Iles (timiles@uvic.ca) is Associate Professor of Japanese Studies at the University of Victoria, Canada, where he teaches and writes on Japanese film, literature, and popular cultural issues. He is a translator of contemporary Japanese literature, and edits the electronic journal of contemporary japanese studies.

Satoko Naito (sanait@utu.fi) is a docent at the Centre for East Asian Studies at the University of Turku in Finland, where she is also an affiliate scholar of the Centre for the Study of Storytelling, Experientiality and Memory (SELMA). Broad research interests include the popular reception of Heian literature, early modern

New articles in this journal are licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 United States License.

This journal is published by the University Library System, University of Pittsburgh as part of its D-Scribe Digital Publishing Program and is cosponsored by the University of Pittsburgh Press.

educational and didactic texts, issues of gender in writing and reading practices, and autobiographical writing.

Mina Qiao (minaqiao@hotmail.com) teaches Japanese literature at Tokyo University of Foreign Studies. She is the author of Women in the Maze: Space and Gender in Kirino Natsuo's Writings (Projekt Verlag, 2019) and the contributing editor of Into the Fantastical Spaces of Contemporary Japanese Literature (Lexington, forthcoming). Her research interests include space, Tokyo, gender and sexuality, and women's writing.

Haydn Trowell (htrowell@outlook.com) is a literary translator and academic, and has translated works from modern and contemporary Japanese authors such as Yasunari Kawabata, Maki Kashimada, and Maru Ayase. He has received a Ph. D. in translation studies from Monash University, and his research explores issues that lie at the intersection of Japanese–English translation, literary studies, and contrastive linguistics.